

ARTHOUSE ■

We require an In-house Designer

Arthouse is a well-established fashion led home interiors company based in Lancashire. We are a successful and growing wallpaper company, now looking for the best design talent in the wall covering industry to join our highly creative and expanding in house team. For this exciting opportunity candidates must have experience working within the wallcovering industry in a similar role. You will have the confidence and ability to work well within a busy studio as part of the team as well as independently and be well organised.

The successful applicant will be comfortable with the manufacturing process and be able to travel to factories to proof, colour and sign off product. We are looking for an experienced designer with a natural flair for colour, who will be confidently using AVA and Photoshop to demonstrate advanced design visualisation skills. You will be required to attend trade shows and be closely connected to trends in fashion and home interiors. Good communication and presentation skills are essential.

A design degree is preferred, but above all candidates will need to demonstrate creativity and be brimming with new ideas and self-motivation. You will have a good understanding of what makes a design commercial but will not be constrained by this when presenting new ideas. Your design referencing skills will be impressive.

We are looking for a proactive enthusiastic designer with a distinctive style who wants to make their mark

Please send your CV with examples of your creativity to recruitment@arthouse.com
